TURPIE YET ON DECK

The Indiana Senator Still Addressing the High Body on the Cuban Question.

EXTRA SESSION, MARCH 15th

Six Hundred Men Out of Employment by Shutting Down of Illinois Steel Works.

MR. CLEVELAND'S LETTER

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 25.—In the senate, to-day, a communication was presented from the attorney general in relation to the foreclosure proceedings against the Union Pacific railroad.

Senator Burrows, of Michigan, presented petitions on the subject of the senatorial election in Delaware. Senator Chandler, of New Hampshire, gave notice that it was his purpose to suggest whether some method cannot be established to "prevent wholesale" of senatorships in various states.

Senator Pettigrew offered a resolution for a special committee of five senators, to inquire into the issue of land patents to the Pacific railroads, and to the California & Oregon railroads, and to diversion from the reports of gross earnings of sums paid to the Pacific mail steamship company; referred.

Senator Chandler introduced a bill providing that no person be tried in the courts of the United States for acts in aid of Cuba.

The military academy appropriation bill was taken up, later, and laid aside to give Senator Turpie an opportunity to address the senate in regard to Cuban matters.

The senate committee on foreign relations discussed the general treaty of arbitration this morning, but no conclusion was reached.

In response to resolution, the attorney-general stated to the senate that an agreement had been made with the re-organization committee of the Union Pacific railway company, respecting the foreclosure; also, he said, they had designated the United States Trust Co., of New York, as the depository; that $4,500,000 had been deposited under agreement. The re-organization people are: Louis Fitzgerald, chairman; Jacob Schiff, T. Jefferson Coolidge, Jr., Channey M. Dewey, Marvin Hoghitt and Oliver Ames. There is also transmitted a letter from President Cleveland, ordering the proceedings.

Following is the text of President Cleveland's letter:

To Hon. Judson Harmon:—The bill which has been for some time pending before congress, providing for adjustment and extension of the indebtedness of the Pacific railroads to the government of the United States, has been defeated in the house of representatives. In the case of Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific railroads, a default in the payment of their indebtedness having occurred, and suits having been commenced for foreclosure of the lien upon said roads, which is a part of the lien, and security of the United States, you are hereby directed, after taking such precautions and perfecting such arrangements as possible to assure as far as practicable the payment of their indebtedness to the government, as a result of suits now pending, or others to be instituted, to take such proceedings in the courts as shall be needful to protect and defend the rights and interests of the United States, and to take steps to foreclose the mortgages or liens of the United States, upon the property of the railroad companies. In case of other aided Pacific railroads, as to which no foreclosure suits are pending, a different situation is presented which requires further consideration.

Yours truly,
GROVER CLEVELAND.

HOUSE PROCEEDINGS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 25.—The house began business to-day by passing, on motion of Mr. Sayers, democrat, of Texas, of the senate bill to provide for the examination and survey of a water route from the mouth of the jetties at the city of Galveston, Texas, through the ship canal and up Buffalo bay to the city of Houston.

Mr. Danforth, republican of Ohio, gave notice that on Wednesday next, after the reading of the journal, he would call up the conference report on the immigration bill. After the disposition of several private bills, business relating to the District of Columbia was taken up.

Representative Power, chairman of the house committee on the Pacific railroads, stated to-day that the subcommittee will report favorably, tomorrow, the Harrison bill, to settle the indebtedness of all bond-aided railroads to the government by a commission.

The Extra Session.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., January 25.—Unless he should change his mind in the meantime, President-elect McKinley will call an extra session of congress for Monday, March 15th. This information was given to Congressmen-elect Stuart and by Mr. McKinley in Canton, a few days ago.

WOOL GROWERS MEET. An Address by Hon. Geo. H. Wallace and Committee Appointed to Draft Resolutions.

In the city hall of East Las Vegas at the hour announced in previous issues of THE OPTIC, there assembled a specially called meeting of the members of the New Mexico Wool Growers' association at which were present a number of prominent people from at home and abroad.

The object of the meeting was stated by President M. W. Browne to be to take action on proper and adequate legislation in the Thirty-second legislative assembly of New Mexico at present in session, with a view to the better protection of sheep growers in this Territory.

Several letters from prominent flock-owners were read, expressive of their views on what laws should be enacted to benefit our principal industry.

Hon. George H. Wallace, of Santa Fe, the well-known and able champion of our wool interests, then delivered a lengthy address to the convention, in which, among other things, he said:

The wool growing industry should receive particular care and protection from the people of the Territory, and our law-makers should enact legislation in its behalf, because it will increase and enhance the resources of this country. Instead of consuming and destroying them, Nature's laws were established for this very purpose, and where sheep are pastured the soil is computed, giving the grass roots a better hold upon the ground, and under these conditions, God's sunshine with the processes of nature add to the productivity; and, too, the moisture is conserved, rapid evaporation is prevented and the number of sheep which may be kept is thus increased.

The industry should be favored, because it teaches habits of industry and economy among the people. It is not a speculation, but a certain, sure source of income, the blizzards affording almost the only hazard or risk, and although the returns are small, it makes us independent, and history demonstrates, for real, permanent, enduring prosperity, in every age and every clime, no other industry has ever equaled it. To use a mining phrase: "It is a lead that can not be worked out."

Every drop of water in this country is precious, and it is right the law should direct the manner of its use, give the "acquiescence" the right of way and protect it with all the power of the state; but the amount of land to be irrigated is small, a little narrow ribbon, as compared with the broad plains over which your sheep will pasture, and the pastoralist, as well as the agriculturist, should be protected in his water rights.

There are other industries in the Territory, using more capital perhaps, employing more men, paying more wages, shipping more tons of products, turning over more money, making more noise, attracting more attention, demanding more favors, making more profits, than the wool industry, but where and to whom do these profits go? Are they employed for the development of our resources? Are they expended in making improvements here? Are they permitted to accumulate, and thus add to the wealth of our Territory? Not so; for usually, after a year of labor and toil in our mines of gold, silver, copper and lead, New Mexico, for its share, has had bread and butter, but the profits, in the shape of dividends, have gone to people outside of our borders, for ninety-nine times in a hundred, the owners live elsewhere. On the other hand, nearly every dollar received for wool, cost and profit, remains here, to enrich the Territory, for ninety-nine times in a hundred, the sheep-owner is a resident, a tax-payer, of New Mexico.

Neither individual, community, state or nation will ever gather riches, if their income is no more than their expenditure; it is the accumulation of profits, no matter how small they may be, which makes wealth and prosperity. California is yielding its millions of mineral treasure, but the wealth of the state, to-day, is in its agricultural and pastoral industries, and this condition is true of every other mineral producing country of the world.

Following the address, came comments very favorable to it and of adopting various suggestions contained in it. A committee was appointed to draft laws or make suggestions in the form of resolutions to be sent to our legislators in Santa Fe, and to this committee will not complete its labor until too late to publish its resolutions in this issue, they will be given proper attention, to-morrow.

CONVENTION NOTES. Chavez, Santa Fe, Bernadillo, Guadalupe and San Miguel counties, were all and ably represented in the meeting.

Mr. Madrid, from Santa Fe county, has the whole interests of the association at heart and was one of the most earnest workers in the meeting.

H. W. Kelly made the motion to elect Mr. Wallace honorary member of the association, and that gentlemen will be of much assistance to the committee on legislation and resolutions.

If bills of sale, taken and acknowledged according to law, were called for by the inspectors, it was the opinion of various members that such documents could not fail in being protective to the flock owner.

The remarks of one of the members, relative to the tricks of peddlers to induce dishonesty in shapshapers, was a revelation of the means whereby the peddling fraternity acquired thousands of sheep at the expense of the flock-owner.

Hon. T. B. Catron was elected as a delegate from the New Mexico wool growers' association, to appear before the conference committee of manufacturers of woollens, and the national committee of ways and means, to be held soon in Washington.
